

Season 24/25 - Newsletter 12

International rounds have always thrown up big points, and Round 11 proved to be the case.

AND, in capitals, bold and underlined, the five fold we tipped of Croatia, Spain, England, Greece & Wales came in at odds of 6-1. That's the second one in 11 weeks that's come in, we're currently ahead in the season.

And we have new leaders.

Bachman & Robin topped the Round, and now top the table, replacing Tumbledwyer.

Addicks Fan have moved up to 3rd place, and there were some big moves at the top end for I Did Warne You and 2 T'Wire, both up 5 places in the round

The only Guaranteed Banker score game in for Bachman & Robin in their round topping score of 79.31 points.

Kanu Feel It would have been top, but were hampered by an incorrect Ireland Banker, whereas 2 T'Wire came in third, and had 10 out of 12 of the results correct.

All the results are on the Archive page, where all the results for every round are stored.

The average score this round was 38.92, a full 20 points higher than the last round, and second highest this season.

Everyone registered a positive points score, the worst score this round was 6.95... I won't say who

There weren't many Picks points on offer, mainly League 2 and the National League Picks for the FA Cup Preliminary round, adding the points, as well as a few goals from players in the Women's Super League.

You'll Never Guess Alone have climbed to the top, with it tight up there, only 50 points separate the top 6.

Wigstow Rovers top scored this week, a lot of the points came from Fran Kirby, their Ex.

They moved up 11 places in a low scoring round.

We're back to a full weekend of games and Players at the weekend in Round 12, and can expect scores in the region of 300 at the top again, and following this will be a big midweek with a full lower league and European Cup program

Bankers don't count in The Grand Prix, so getting them right, or wrong, doesn't influence the outcome.

Kanu Feel It topped this round. Joint on the Podium by Tumbledwyer and Chips & Gravy.

TumbleDwyer have a healthy overall lead.

KaneAndDisable added another top ten finish, 6 from 11 now, to keep second spot, and Chips & Gravy are up in 3rd place

15 rounds still to play out to settle the competition.

In the Premier League, Perpetual, Table, no change this round, as no games.... Obvious really.

So City are still out on top, with Arsenal still celebrating in second.

Liverpool remain third, and as I keep pointing out, despite all the pundits bigging up the start they've had, they are actually worse off points wise this season, than they were in the same games last season!!!

Fans League Scores (Just for fun.. or are these the ones that really count)

Arsenal v Wolves	Game 11	2	-	0
Brentford v Billericay Town	Game 11	0	-	1
Bristol Rovers v Oxford United	Game 11	0	-	1
Chelsea v Plymouth	Game 11	2	-	2

Manchester United v West Ham	Game 11	0	-	2
Tottenham v Nottingham Forest	Game 11	1	-	2
Watford v Newcastle	Game 11	5	-	2

So I thought I'd throw the focus back on The Fans League this update, weirdly I quite enjoy the fixtures, scores and Table for this set of fantasy outcomes.

The goals Fan(s) score are related to how much they exceed the average points scored by everyone during the round (is the easiest way to explain it).

Chelsea Fans went into the Round on 20 points, 1 clear of Watford, and a couple ahead of Derby & Charlton.

All the Fan H2H results from the season are on the website, and there's a link to them under the Table on The DashBoard on the website, but I've shown them here as well

Watford, Derby & Charlton all had big wins.

They've leap-frogged Chelsea, who drew with Plymouth.

West Ham & Forest both won, and are both just a couple of points off the top.

Whilst Gillingham are bottom, they are on the same points as Manchester United, who like Liverpool have only won one of the 11 Head2Heads so far.

It's only a bit of fun really. Honestly....

I've added a copy of the current Sprint Table to the end of the update, there's 7 more games to be played Tuesday night, and then early on Wednesday morning,

Round 12 takes us back to the Premier Plus 2, and the Deadline for RD12 is Friday at 9PM.
