

Season 24/25 - Newsletter 1

It's now 'Days' away from the start of the Mayhem, 'Days'!!!!

The Picks will start adding points from the 26th July, in league games in Belgium then a week later in Scotland, as well as points from any Players that have been picked by you from those leagues (currently one player picked in the Belgium Pro League).

2% of all your Pick Points will feed into the Main Table. There's three sets of Picks to get in, one of teams you think will do well in the leagues, another for the teams you expect to progress in the cups, and the final set, one of players you expect to shine across Europe.

In that set, you are going to be able to make changes during the season, if you want to/need to, and your player selection will also go up against Southgate's Euro 11. (Yep I've added his England 11 and a couple of subs into the mix). There will be three windows to make changes, and the Manager of the Season will be rewarded.

So a greater element of Fantasy Manager joins the Picks for those wanting to use it, not as flexible as most, but, with the added access to players outside the Premiership.

Round 1 of the Main Competition gets underway on Friday 9th August, when the first set of 12 from the EFL covering relegated and promoted teams from the season before, take centre stage.

I've looked to clean up the website a little, (I actually liked the 'sharper' look the Euros had), and as always, it will be easier to navigate around on a laptop or a tablet, and look better. The usual links will be there as before but with a couple of additions.

The most obvious addition is a link to The Engine Room. For anyone interested (me I guess) there will be a link to the match data and player data being tracked throughout the season. All the data from the games in the '12' and the Picks and all the relevant player stats will show here.

As the goals go in, if I'm sat with my laptop, then the data will be updated, and feed into all the tables. As saves are made, cards are brandished, player points are confirmed, then I will get the numbers crunched.

Not every game will be on the Input sheet, only those where the count next to the home team is greater than 1, indicating a Pick for at least one of the teams from one of us. The teams highlighted in Blue, have had at least 1 player 'Picked', again, by at least one of us.

The Link to The Engine Room is at the bottom of The Dashboard.

A lot of the data will then feed into tables on the DashBoard for 24/25, and also All The Tables (there will be a tab with the same name) where everything being tracked is being recorded.

I've also mentioned previously, but worth covering here again, that we're going to be supporting The British Heart Foundation this time.

A percentage of all signing on fees, and any additional donations will go to the charity, which as always, will be boosted by the kind help from Mr &

Mrs Saved By The Belle.

£50.00 from The Euros has already been added, from Chris Sutton's Euro win, and I'm anticipating a contribution in excess of £600.00 going to the charity once we're up and running.

And, for every new joiner £20.00 will be added. So spread the word. The More The Merrier
